Voice is drowning in water, California and Australia are burning, and we're being told it's a world burn. Our voices are getting strangled. The Earth is dying. She is being poisoned by the inconsiderate and clueless. The Earth is being poisoned by the world itself.

L oner, alienated, and isolated, young people are finding it increasingly difficult to connect with one another. It is becoming harder and harder for youth to find others who share their values and beliefs. The world is becoming a more and more isolated place for young people.

It's time we start listening to her. It's time we start taking action. It's time we start protecting the planet for future generations. It's time we start making the necessary changes to save the Earth.
