A newly weaned piglet explores its new home in a nursery. As it grows this pig will move through several different barns and eventually enter the food supply or be selected for breeding and placed in a gilt development unit.