ONE YEAR LATER

Looking back a year after the Camp Fire in Paradise

BY CONNOR FROST

The population has gone from almost 27,000 people down to around 4,000 residents.

Almost 19,000 businesses, homes, and structures were destroyed in the blaze.

After being closed because of the fire, Paradise High School welcomed back its students this year.

A year later, 11 homes have been rebuilt with many more being constructed.

The Camp Fire is the deadliest fire in California history with 85 lives taken.

PG&E has officially been ruled the cause of the fire.
